

School of Public Administration

1. General Overview

The School of Public Administration aims to produce professional administrators and policy makers who are equipped with creative problem-solving capabilities and democratic leadership, and to advance studies in public administration in the areas of administration systems and public policies, all for the welfare of the general public.

2. Educational Goals/Objectives

We have provided interdisciplinary curricula in the undergraduate and graduate programs for students to be equipped with proper capabilities in this globalized world. In particular, we emphasize the importance of planning and analysis in administration, policy decision and policy analysis, relationship between government and enterprises, and education of social responsibilities and administrative ethics. We also value practicable skills and techniques in our instructions.

3. Areas of Specialization and/or Course Titles

Introduction to Public Administration, Introduction to Political Science, Introduction to Economy, Introduction to Sociology, Introduction to Law, Basic Theories of Public Administration, Methodology in Public Administration, Administrative Organization Theories, Public Financial Administration, Digital Governance, Human Resources Management, Quantitative Method in Public Administration, Public Management, Organizational Behavior, Public Personnel Administration, Non-Profit Organizations, Principles of Policy Science, Government and State Development, Local Administration, Public Administration in the Context of Global Collaboration, Policy Formation, Policy Analysis and Evaluation, Public Management Information System, Urban Administration, Social Policy, Planning Theory, Policy Implementation and Management, Public Financial Management, Government and Business, Selected Topics in Public Administration, Environmental Administration, Public Audit and Inspection, Cultural Policy, Digital Government, Administrative Ethics, Government Innovation, Selected Topics in Public Administration Management, Negotiation and Conflict Management

4. Career Opportunities/Job Situation

Graduates will work as reform-minded administrative professionals in the global and digital world. The following are some of the job opportunities for our graduates:

- civil servant in local and central government
- staff member in various associations, public enterprises, financial institutions, and journalism
- professor or research fellow in administration-related institutions

5. Related Licenses

- Certified Administrative Manager
- Administrative Manager
- Specialist of Policy Analysis